Auburn University College of Architecture, Design and Construction

Professor and Head of the School of Architecture, Planning and Landscape Architecture

The College of Architecture, Design and Construction at Auburn University is seeking applications and nominations for the position of Professor and Head of the School of Architecture, Planning and Landscape Architecture.

Established in 1907, the School of Architecture, Planning and Landscape Architecture at Auburn University maintains a dynamic, ongoing engagement with the architecture and landscape architecture professions. The School has recently renovated its existing facilities in Dudley Hall, which are equipped with state of the art technology and equipment. There are approximately 450 students enrolled in the undergraduate Architecture, Interior Architecture and graduate Landscape Architecture programs. The School Head also provides oversight of remote, immersive design and research programs including: Rural Studio in West Alabama, Urban Studio in Birmingham, Alabama as well as academic centers in Rome, Italy and Istanbul, Turkey. The School Head works closely with the 35-member faculty and staff, and is the School's liaison with the Dean's Office in the College of Architecture, Design and Construction, as well as with the heads of the other two schools within the college. (For more information about the School of Architecture, Planning and Landscape Architecture at Auburn please see http://www.cadc.auburn.edu/architecture).

Auburn University, a premier land-grant institution, was chartered in 1856. Over the past 15 years, Auburn has consistently been ranked by US News and World Report as one of the top 50 public universities in the United States. The university has 1,209 full-time faculty and enrolls 25,912 regional, national, and international students. The town of Auburn is a growing and affordable community with outstanding public schools. (Please see http://www.auburn.edu/.)

The College of Architecture, Design and Construction at Auburn University, established in 1907, is comprised of the School of Architecture, Planning and Landscape Architecture, The McWhorter School of Building Science and the School of Industrial and Graphic Design. These academic units offer undergraduate and graduate degree programs that are consistently recognized both institutionally and nationally for their academic excellence and their on-going innovations in the fields of design, construction and related education. (Please see http://www.cadc.auburn.edu/.)

The Head of the School of Architecture, Planning and Landscape Architecture is poised to play a key role in the context of a multidisciplinary college that emphasizes integrated practice and collaboration. As an academic unit, the School of Architecture, Planning and Landscape Architecture maintains a strong commitment to excellence in teaching as well as an exemplary working relationship with the professional community and industry. The School is a leader in design and outreach education, and research in Architecture, Landscape Architecture and Interior Architecture. The Head of School provides vision, leadership and support for the School's academic, professional and scholarly research goals and initiatives.

This is a 12-month, tenured position. Rank and salary are commensurate with experience.

Required qualifications

Terminal degree in Architecture, Landscape Architecture, OR 1st professional degree in Architecture or Landscape Architecture along with a master’s degree in a related discipline.

Academic and/or professional record that merits appointment at the rank of Associate or Full Professor with tenure

Demonstrated leadership and management skills

Experience with resource and budget management

Record of outstanding written, interpersonal and digital communication skills

Desired qualifications

Recognized accomplishments in teaching, scholarship, research and professional practice

Experience with integrated practice and/or collaborative learning

Commitment to public service through direct experience with academic outreach programs and/or applied research
Experience at developing and maintaining productive partnerships with the community and the profession

Experience at obtaining external funding

PhD in Architecture, Landscape Architecture, Interior Architecture or related discipline and/or professional licensure

Application Process:
Apply online at the following URL:
http://aufacultypositions.peopleadmin.com/postings/1323

If applicants have questions or need assistance in completing the application, including reasonable accommodations, please email Cindy Hammonds at hammoci@auburn.edu.

Required Application materials:
Letter of interest specifically addressing above qualifications
Current curriculum vitae and digital portfolio of design work
Names, addresses, telephone numbers and email addresses of four references

Review of applications will begin on 21 January 2016 and will continue until a candidate is recommended for appointment. Start date is tentatively set for July 2016.

Auburn University is an EEO/VET/Disability Employer.